Once upon a time in a far away land a kingdom nestled in a fertile valley surrounded by mountains. North of these mountains lay dry, barren deserts which were a mystery to those who inhabited the land. West of these mounds lay a huge body of mysterious water known as the ocean, where brave men and women sailed in search of new lands and a new way of life. To the south lay a cool, serene area that was set aside for more peaceful eras.

The kingdom was known as Nanterre. The people that lived in this kingdom were very proud of their homeland and fought with all their might against any enemies that threatened them.

In all of their battles they were undefeated and the name of Nanterre was known and respected throughout the countryside.

Within these pages is recounted the struggle and search for new horizons and challenges brought to the citizens of this noble kingdom . . .

A FADED DREAM

*The first time I saw you,
You were standing by a water fountain.
I tried to get your attention
but you turned away.
The next time I set eyes on you,
You were overlooking the beach.
I smiled at you
but you looked away.
I really wanted to talk to you
When I saw you at the park
But you glanced the other way
I cried and cried...
Until one day you were in a garden-
You finally looked at me and smiled.
It was the moment I'd been waiting for, for so long but then I turned,
and walked away.*

It crashes on the earth with a thunderous pound,

And returns to its beginning. . . .

DRY-EYED WEEPER

*It seems as though I never cry.
I often ask the question, "Why?"
The rotten things I feel inside
I can't through weeping eyes confide.
They're never with a tear revealed
But often with a smile concealed.
While others' sadness is expressed
I frown, but still remain depressed.
But finally, when tears stream out,
(For every man must cry, no doubt)
My tears do not just rain but pour
As if they've passed an open door
A door which has been locked and sealed,
Has kept my feelings well concealed
Sometimes I try to learn the cause,
I search for habits, rules, or laws
Which might reveal the reason why
I do, at rare times, start to cry.
In trying to solve this mystery
I've ruled out death and tragedy.
A movie, wake, or long goodbye
May make me frown but never cry.
Instead, the trigger's neat and small
It's nothing, not a thing at all.*

CASTLES

*The little boy at the shore
Builds a sand castle.
He spends all day moulding the sand;
A wave rolls in
He begins again,
Moulding and pressing.
Time and again,
Another wave destroys his new beginnings.
The little boy moves to Higher ground.*

*My dreams and emotions are like
His sand castles.
I work hard to complete them.
Only to watch waves destroy my efforts.
I must begin again.
But next time, I'll wait for low tide.*

-Diana Nickles, '82

REMEMBERING

*We walked together, side by side.
Sometimes we laughed; sometimes we cried.
You gave me life; you made me whole.
Your tenderness enriched my soul.*

*I thought this would forever be.
We'd be together, you and me.
But then you said you had to go.
The pain I felt, you'll never know!*

*So now you're gone, and I am here.
I'm so alone; I've so much fear.
I think of you. Do you of me? . . .
I long for times that used to be.*

-Kathleen Todd, '81

GREENER GRASS

*My friend was blue and so was I;
We talked and shared the reasons why.
Now she spoke first while I sat still
And listened to her woes, until
The time had come for me to speak
But suddenly I felt quite meek.
For of the woes I had to share
I had not one which could compare.
Instead, mine had become quite trite;
My life appeared a shade more bright,
For once, I knew my grass was green -
The greenest I had ever seen!*

A CRY FOR LOVE

The child:

Bewildered and left alone.
Starving for love.
Screaming for attention.
Neglected and uncared for.
No one to teach him how
To ride a bike or throw a ball.
Left to care for himself.
As the child grows, he becomes
A "bad boy"
Because a spanking is better than Being ignored.
He is labeled a trouble maker,
And is called a nuisance.

Finally he finds a teacher: Life.

Discovering things the hard way
And learning from the streets.
Now he is no longer a "bad boy."
He's a criminal.
But he's still screaming
For love.

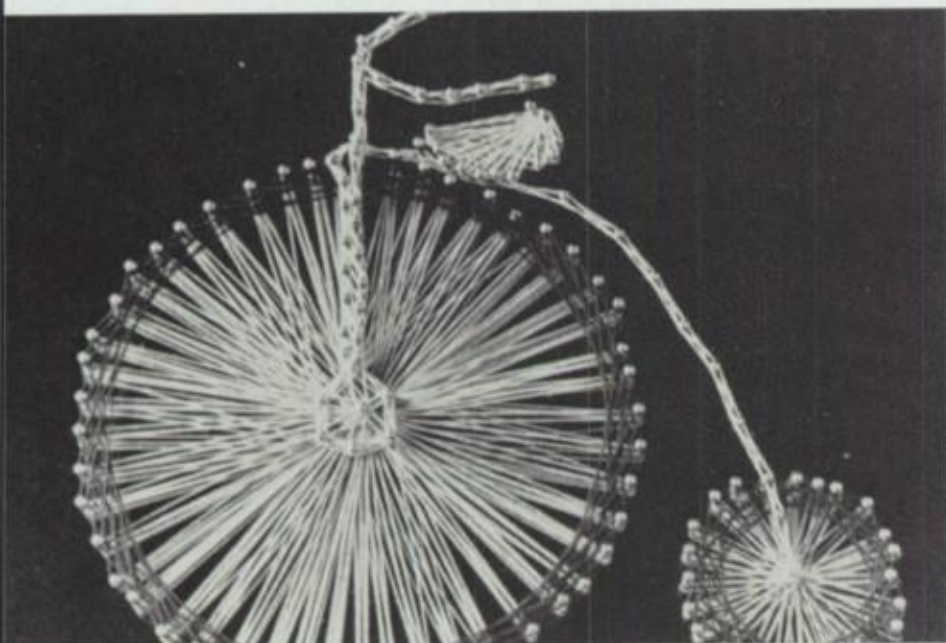

-Laura Graff, '82

DECEPTION

I thought my friends would be the wind and sea
But now they lag, and I am far behind.
The sun proclaims the time of day to me -
You peaceful depths, you now seem so unkind.
You once called me to this majestic shore
And tempted me with soothing sounds of calm,
So I then bade the mountains, "Never more,"
And made my life beneath a swaying palm.
But Beauty cannot satisfy alone.
So sun and I go out in my canoe...
In search of food we are together blown.
Without the wind there's nothing we can do.
The peace I loved I sometimes now despise,
That wretch, that tease, that taunted me with lies.

PISMO BEACH

Crashing waves
reaching the sand,
drenching my feet,
cooling the land.
Such sweet mist,
so crisp and flowing,
tingling my face,
until it's glowing.
Seagulls soaring,
high above cliffs,
over the clouds,
flying in drifts.
Sun shining brightly,
and blinding my eyes.
Sands sitting warmly
in tune with the skies.
Shifting winds
gently blowing,
Happy friends,
living and growing.
All is alive,
along the white shore
while the blue sea
flows... evermore.

I thought that I was having fun.
The little boy was on the street-
He was not standing on his feet.
I ran so quickly from my car-
It seemed a distance very far.
The moment that I did arrive
I noticed he was not alive.
What could I say when it was done?
I thought that I was having fun.*

A CHILD'S FEAR

*There's a monster in my closet there.
Get out of bed? I do not dare!
For he will get me, it is true,
With one big loud and scary, "Boo!"
"Hey, Mom, I'm scared!" That's what I said.
"But, Dear, it's only in your head.
Now go to sleep and you will see
That in the morn he will not be."
So then I crept beneath the sheets.
I know he heard my loud heartbeats!
And if I cannot bear the fear,
I'll flick the light. He'll disappear.
And so I wait without a peep...
Until... I fall into* deep sleep.

THE POWER OF HEALING

*An open page
And a sweaty palm
On a steel pen
Ink that's flowing like seething blood
from an open wound
The ink dries
and the wound heals
but the scar and the writing*

A TRUE FRIEND

*A person who is like a sister to you.
Someone you can talk to.
Someone who knows how you feel.
Knows you inside and out.
Accepts you for who you are.
Someone whom you can depend on.
Someone who is always ready to listen.
Someone you can share your ups-and-downs with.
Someone who makes your life a little easier.
A person you can share your secrets with.
Someone who gives memories a special meaning.*

Christine Kozberg

I DON'T KNOW WHY

*I won't let you get close to me.
I guess I'm just afraid
    Afraid of love,
    afraid of pain
I know you want to know me inside
but when you get close
    I want to run
    I want to hide
I know you'll always care
I'm just afraid... afraid one day I'll need you and you won't be there.
I know it's hard for you when you have to see me cry
when I think of how it hurts
    a part of me just dies,
I don't understand all these feelings
they're in my mind with difficult meanings.

I'm all confused
please
just give me time
I need to be alone to think.
Is that such a crime?*

Those challenges were met by the Royalty who inhabited the land for four brief years. They brought knowledge, spirit, unity, and self-respect, qualities which will stay with these leaders, hopefully, wherever Life's paths may lead.

As high-ranked Noblemen take the place of the Royalty and become new leaders, so the princes and princesses of our Junior class will gain respect in next year's kingdom.

The Squires and Peasants of this merry kingdom will learn to take on the responsibilities set before them to become the future leaders in Nanterre.

As our tale ends and the pages of time close, there will be one attribute the citizens in Nanterre will possess . . .

A belief in one's ability to meet the challenges of an unpredictable future and to grow in true nobility.

The Nanterrian 1982 is a reflection of us as a whole. Our artistic, photographic, writing and leadership skills finally came together within these pages. We worked hard, and we gave it our all.

As we graduate and leave, the only trace of our existence left behind is our yearbook: Moments captured in time.

People we thank:

Fr. Frank, the faculty, and the administration, for their patience and cooperation.

Our Josten's/American Yearbook Representative, Robert "Hap" Zavack, for giving us the initial motivation and direction.

Bill Christy- for his professional photographic work.

Sr. Angela Clare- for editing and proofreading all of our copy.

The Staff- who under the constant direction of our editors, Aileen and Jackie, worked to the very end to produce layouts of quality.

Our Photographers- Javier, Doug, and especially Bill, our Photography Editor, who gave so much of their extra time, talent, and themselves to make the yearbook more than just words.

Our Artists- Brenda, who interpreted our ideas into the cover; Jackie, who designed the division pages; Tony and Therese, who helped with the autograph pages.

Our contributing sources, chiefly our sponsors, advertisers, and parents.

And, of course, our advisor, Mrs. Nancy Patten, who gave time, inspiration and effort, while allowing us to compose a yearbook containing our own ideas and individuality.

Last, but certainly never least, the group of people who were there with me until the very end. You'll never really know my gratitude!
